DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

The indicated allowability of claims 1-8 is withdrawn in view of the newly discovered reference(s) to Kaplan et al., US Patent No. 6,488,689, and Whyne et al., US. Patent No. 5,865,791. Rejections based on the newly cited reference(s) follow.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 1, 7, and 8 respectively recite the limitation a "space between the pericardium and the heart." This claims language is not descriptive since the pericardium is a part of the heart tissue. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim 2 recites the limitation "the endoscopic system" in line 2. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kaplan et al. US Patent no. 6,488,689.

Kaplan et al. disclose a method and apparatus for treating atrial appendage, the method comprising:

creating an opening in the chest wall cavity with a surgical instrument;

introducing a surgical device through said opening;

entering the surgical device in the pericardial space between the pericardium and the heart muscle;

navigating a stapling device to the atrial appendage using a viewing scope; and closing the left atrial appendage using the stapling device as claimed (see col. 3, lines 49-60; col. 4, lines 41-49; and claims 1, 11 and 30).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kaplan et al in view of Whyne et al. US Patent No. 5,865,791.

Although Kaplan et al., described above, recognizes the use of electrosurgical apparatus to treat atrial appendage (see col. 1, line 60 through col. 2, line 6), they do not use electrosurgical means to close/treat the atrial appendage as claimed.

Whyne et al. teach an alternative device and method of use for treating atrial appendage using an electrosurgical apparatus. They further teach the use of mechanical device as an alternative means to provide the treatment (see col. 9, lines 7-28, and claims 1 and 17). Therefore, at the time of the applicant's invention, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Kaplan et al in view of Whyne et al. and use electrosurgical device, such as electrodes, as an equivalent alternative means to provide the treatment.
